Embracing Opportunity in Uganda

Christian, a young man with hemophilia A from the Democratic Republic of Congo, currently lives in the Nakivale Refugee Camp in Uganda. He started a small studio where he sells movies and music, offers printing services, repairs computers and installs software. With the help of a Save One Life Micro-Enterprise grant, Christian expanded his business to provide additional income for his family, including four of his siblings who also have hemophilia.

Agnes Kisakye, executive secretary of the Haemophilia Foundation of Uganda, tells us that Christian "does not only support his brothers but many other children with hemophilia seeking care at the centre. He is compassionate and sacrifices his comfort to ensure his fellow hemophilia patients are comfortable."

Christian is thankful to Save One Life for the Micro-Enterprise Grant. He says, "I appreciate the support and effort made to ensure my well-being in life day to day; I'm really grateful. Thank you and God bless."
