Polymer Clay Workshops

3 Thursdays: April 4 - 18
9 AM – noon

PRESENTER: JEANNE CARR

Soft and moldable at room temperature, polymer clay lends itself easily to small scale projects like jewelry and miniatures. It is durable and waterproof after it is baked.

Session One, April 4: Making polymer clay canes. These rods or logs are made with a colorful design that runs the entire length of the log. If you cross-section or slice the rod at one point, you'll see a two-dimensional pattern.

Session Two, April 11: Learning to blend colors. Learn the basic two-color Skinner blend, the multiple color blend, and gradient and ribbon blends. Can be used to make flower petals, spirals, and lots more.

Session Three, April 18: Mokume Gane, a technique developed in the 17th century. It means "wood grain in metal". Polymer clay is the perfect material to imitate this look.

Price: $75/$68 members per session or $200/$180 members for all three sessions
