

#2 Evelyn C., Age 13 United Chaos

COVID had us all spinning out of normalcy. The uncertainties definitely caused chaos, but we pulled back together as a community.

#3 Emily, Age 19 Reaching Towards Higher Self

As we come together again, I am bringing with me the time that I have spent with myself through the pandemic.

#4 Jenna, Age 16 Hug

Never underestimate the power of touch.

#5 Sadie, Age 16 Beauty Between Creatures

We are all connected no matter how different our appearances. We have the ability to create meaningful bonds between each other that are truly beautiful.

#6 Madison L., Age 11 Shrek Reunited

Shrek is love. Shrek is life. #StayShrexy

#7 Taison, Age 13 Together at School

Catching up with friends as we walk back to school.

#8 Callie, Age 11 We Stand Together

I chose to do a painting where everyone is holding hands, because to me, "Together Again" means we are all reunited and are a big family again.

#9 Frida, Age 15 Quarantine

The feelings I had during and after quarantine are expressed in my painting.

#10 Valeria, Age 12 Settings

This is a painting of the places I'd be before and after quarantine.

#11 Liam, Age 14 Skate Session

This work consisted of many layers and multiple colors. This piece shows how COVID-19 motivated me to pick up a new hobby. This is a painting of a crook-grind down the Santa Barbara Skate Park rail.

#12 Holly, Age 17 Freedom

Be a bubble.

#13 Gwyn, Age 11 Out of this World

The universe is together and so are we.

#16 Sierra, Age 17 Overlap

In a Venn diagram, the space where the circles overlap shows what they have in common. Each circle in my piece represents a person's individual experience, and each spot where the circles overlap represents how, even though the past year was different for everyone, people still connected and found similar experiences.

#17 Celeste, Age 15 Together Again

This shows people together again, and a TV-show character that some family members and I bonded over when we were together again after being vaccinated.

#18 Matilda, Age 11 Coming Together

When I heard that the theme was "Together Again" I saw a flash of the image I wanted to create. I felt that people of color, LGBTQ and trans flags needed to be shown. The arms represent coming together in a peaceful manner.

#19 Sebastian C., Age 12 Monkey Reunion

Monkeys are funny and two is even funnier.

#20 Sam, Age 16 Indy Llew, The World Loves You!

This is a tribute piece for a five-year old little angel named Indy. Rest in peace and heaven sweet girl. We love you. 3-6-21.

#21 Amelia, Age 11 What Brings Us Together

The painting shows how getting vaccinated, conserving water, the BLM movement, masks and Carp Rocks all bring us together again.

#22 Raven, Age 18 Because of Health Care Heroes

I wanted my piece to highlight an important reason why we are all "together again." This is dedicated to our many health care heroes.

#23 Whit (Boo), Age 17 The Unpredictables of Life

The wilderness represents the unknown of the world, and the tree shows the colors and shapes of people all coming together in this vast, unpredictable world.

#24 Kalia, Age 17 Untitled

#25 Ella, Age 16 Pearl

This piece is dedicated to my wonderful dog, Pearl. Pearl recently had an unexpected surgery which she was lucky to come home from. My family and I are very grateful for the time we have with her now. In this way, we are “Together Again.”

#26 Jordan, Age 12 The Day Is Coming

The reason I made this was to show how I felt during quarantine, and how I couldn't play basketball for almost a year.

#27 Adelina, Age 13 Heart Full of Hands

This piece was inspired by the closest people I have been with during COVID. They are like family to me.

#28 Natalie, Age 13 Six Feet Apart Around the World

COVID affected everybody. People had to wear masks and stay six feet apart around the world. Now we are all “together again.”

#29 Rosita, Age 13 Finally

Many people are now able to see their extended families because they are vaccinated. My piece is of a teen who can finally be with her grandmother.

#30 Anna, Age 12 A New Route Unlocked

Two friends were finally able to play the game together after months of not being able to.

#31 Emma P., Age 17 Opposites Attract

Despite their differences, two dragons still find it within themselves to come together as friends, or even lovers, when they need it the most.

#32 Madison J., Age 15 Be Different Together

Just because you look or act different from someone, you should keep in mind how much you might need that person.

#33 Jaycob, Age 11 Together Around the World

Freedom from masks, to go on airplanes, and to visit friends and family.

#34 Sebastian T., Age 14 EYE

Everything I saw during the coronavirus:

- TV static represents introverts: lots of TV and games
- Chaos represents the coronavirus: scary, terrifying and chaotic
- Outside represents the beautiful outdoors and being together again

#35 Evelyn L., Age 13 The Calm After the Storm

After the world-wide flood, Noah was so happy to be alive after the disaster. I felt the same after COVID.

#36 Lila, Age 11 Mixing Colors

This piece represents how people are coming together in a splash of color after quarantine.

#37 Sophia, Age 12 The Dark

I think that the dark in the back part of the painting is like us during quarantine, and the heart coming into the light is us now.

#38 Emma W., Age 12 Erupted

My art piece shows how we are all connected in our own ways.

#39 Abigail, Age 12 Together Again

Everyone on the beach, finally together again.

#40 Carly, Age 16 The Future is Coming

Currently the future is the beginning of peace between races and genders, which means we are doing something right.

#41 Luke, Age 13 Smile

Stay positive.

#42 Santi, Age 11 Untitled
