RE: AB 1223 (As Amended April 19, 2021) – STRONG OPPOSE

Dear Assembly Member Burke,

The undersigned wildlife conservation organizations must strongly oppose AB 1223 – legislation which would impose an additional excise tax of 10% on the sales price of a handgun, and an 11% excise tax on the sales price of a long gun, firearm precursor part, and ammunition sold in California. AB 1223 would require the revenues collected to be deposited in the Gun Violence Prevention, Healing, and Recovery Fund and used to support initiatives which mitigate the impact illegal firearm-related violence has on families and communities.

All of California’s law-abiding public benefit from efforts to implement programs which remediate the impacts of illegal gun violence upon California families and communities, and all should equally help to fund their implementation. Yet, AB 1223 would place the entire burden of funding these remediation efforts on the backs of law-abiding hunters and shooters who legally purchase their firearms and ammunition and who have no more to do with firearm violence than any other law-abiding Californian.

AB 1223 would also have a substantial impact upon our state’s wildlife and the enjoyment they provide all our public. Law-abiding hunters and shooters who legally purchase sporting arms and munitions already pay a 10% federal excise tax on handguns and an 11% federal excise tax on sporting arms, ammunition, and archery equipment via the federal Pittman-Robertson Act. This tax contributes tens of millions of dollars annually to the California Department of Fish and Wildlife – revenue which funds a large portion of our state’s wildlife management, conservation, and research efforts. Placing additional taxes on top of the existing excise taxes charged on sporting arms and munitions will only further drive up the cost of these goods, reduce their sales and, in turn, reduce the critical annual revenues made available for California's wildlife conservation and management efforts.

All of California's citizens support and benefit from efforts intended to address the negative impact the criminal use of firearms has upon California's law-abiding public. Yet, AB 1223 would wrongly place the entire burden of funding initiatives intended to mitigate the harms caused by illegal gun violence on a very small segment of our law-abiding public, while also having substantial unintended impacts on our state's wildlife conservation efforts.

For all the above reasons, we urge your opposition to AB 1223 when the bill comes before your Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation on April 26, 2021.

Sincerely,
